

Infant Oral Mutilation (IOM)

During the past forty years this disturbing cultural belief has been observed in parts of central East Africa. This is due to the mistaken belief that an infant's unerupted baby teeth are "worms" which cause illness. Babies as young as six days old and small children are having their baby teeth deliberately removed from under their gums. This leads to serious deformation of adult teeth and often to serious illness and death of the infants.

Combating IOM is one of Dentaids major priorities over the next few years. We have now embarked on a process intended to bring the practice of IOM into the forefront of public awareness and end the needless pain and suffering that it causes. To this end Dentaids has created an "IOM Action Team" to focus on implementing a much needed strategy to deal with the very real problem of IOM.

If you are interested in getting involved there are several ways that Dentaids needs your help. Please tick any of the actions below.

Name

E - mail Phone

- Volunteering to take part in research and education initiatives in IOM affected countries.
- Carrying out education initiatives in outreach programmes, community centres and schools in IOM affected areas.
- An elective study into IOM.
- Carrying out further UK based IOM related research, perhaps as part of an undergraduate or Masters course.
- Providing essential financial support to allow the action team to take the project forward.

Please return this form to Nicky at Dentaids, Giles Lane, Landford, Salisbury, SP5 2BG Charity no. 1075826

Infant Oral Mutilation (IOM)

During the past forty years this disturbing cultural belief has been observed in parts of central East Africa. This is due to the mistaken belief that an infant's unerupted baby teeth are "worms" which cause illness. Babies as young as six days old and small children are having their baby teeth deliberately removed from under their gums. This leads to serious deformation of adult teeth and often to serious illness and death of the infants.

Combating IOM is one of Dentaids major priorities over the next few years. We have now embarked on a process intended to bring the practice of IOM into the forefront of public awareness and end the needless pain and suffering that it causes. To this end Dentaids has created an "IOM Action Team" to focus on implementing a much needed strategy to deal with the very real problem of IOM.

If you are interested in getting involved there are several ways that Dentaids needs your help. Please tick any of the actions below.

Name

E - mail Phone

- Volunteering to take part in research and education initiatives in IOM affected countries.
- Carrying out education initiatives in outreach programmes, community centres and schools in IOM affected areas.
- An elective study into IOM.
- Carrying out further UK based IOM related research, perhaps as part of an undergraduate or Masters course.
- Providing essential financial support to allow the action team to take the project forward.

Please return this form to Nicky at Dentaids, Giles Lane, Landford, Salisbury, SP5 2BG Charity no. 1075826